Inspired by a passion for wholesome adventure, Miki Bennett is a contemporary women's fiction author and the friendly face behind two popular romance series: The Florida Keys Novels and Camping in High Heels. Enjoyed by readers and critics alike, her book Camping in High Heels won first place in Authors Talk About It's 2017 Romance Book Contest, and others have gone on to become bestsellers on Amazon.

Miki's writing began after deeply personal events in her life, including her journey with a rare, invisible illness called Mastocytosis and successful cancer treatments in 2002. At the recommendation of her doctors, Miki began writing about her illness, which then led to other creative stories. Her writing became a meditative practice for her, allowing her to get lost in an imaginary world and leave her problems behind, which she now shares with her beloved readers.

A love of the beach and joyful camping trips with her family while growing up inspired her to write heartwarming novels that bring humor and paradise to readers' fingertips. From wacky camping adventures to heartfelt romances, Miki gives her readers stories that they can relate to and enjoy – and they always have a happy ending! In doing so, she hopes her books leave readers smiling and inspire them to find their own happiness.

Outside of writing, Miki enjoys other creative hobbies like painting, crocheting clothing for the homeless, and making custom, book-themed jewelry. She has won many awards for her diverse crafting skills as well.

Miki lives in Charleston, South Carolina with her loving husband, Jeff, and little dog, Emma. She and Jeff have three children who have flown the nest, leaving Miki with lots of time to write, dream, and share her joy with her readers.

All it took was one visit to the Florida Keys for Miki Bennett to decide that this would be the setting for her first novel series, The Florida Keys Novels. She knew that her love for these tiny islands and the tropical vibe that surrounds them would be the perfect place for the stories she envisioned about women overcoming obstacles to live out their dreams with a bit of romance thrown in of course!

For Miki's second series, Camping in High Heels, Miki's inspiration came from growing up in the RV Industry. Her parent's owned three RV dealerships and Miki traveled the USA in motor homes and travel trailers. Many of the adventures in the novels have come from real life experiences, which makes the comedy romance stories even more special.
